CULTURAL DANCE A BIG HIT

Jorgia White

DANCING is an outlet of complete happiness for Yasha Sarvana, whose Shrishti Dance Academy is about sharing her love with the community.

The Academy specialises in Bollywood and Indian classical dancing. It aims to preserve their traditional forms while also embracing modern styles.

Ms Sarvana, a Springfield Lakes resident, said the school allowed her to share her experience and knowledge of dance while also providing a fun environment.

“My studio is an open space, giving everyone an opportunity to have fun and try it out,” she said.

“Dance is something people always want to do. It plays a major part in extra-curricular activities.”

Ms Sarvana was looking for more opportunities for her students to perform in public and urged organisers of local events to get in touch.

“I would love to spread the word to other local communities and help everyone experience this wonderful style of dance,” Ms Sarvana said.

“I’d also love to be able to increase our performances in the local community. I am earnestly trying to promote my classes and arrange further performances for my students.”

The group’s next performance is at Namaste World at Rocklea on August 6.

The multicultural carnival is headlined by a fashion segment from the Brisbane-based Red Carpet Functions. It will bring together models from many different countries and backgrounds, designers from the creative sector and performances from singers to dancers.

The event at the Rocklea Showgrounds runs from 11am to 8pm. For more information, search for Namaste World – A Multi-Cultural Carnival on Facebook.
